OUR COMMUNITY

The School of Drama is a diverse community of artists, scholars, technicians, craftspeople, educators, administrators, patrons, donors, and friends. It is a vibrant hub with a rich history of creative energy, entrepreneurial spirit, and intellectual rigor, driven by the people that have chosen to work, learn, engage, and create here.

For nearly 75 years, our school has fostered a thriving community that has grown far beyond our physical walls. Our people are deeply rooted in the history of our own regional theatre community (both past and present) and are working and creating all throughout the world.

Learn more about the people that have made and continue to make this school such a vital asset to our performing arts community:
